Climate, Cartography, and Imperialism in Late Antique Eurasia: A Colloquium

Saturday, March 3, 11:00 a.m.–4:30p.m.
SUB Lobo Room

11:00 a.m.–12:00 p.m.
“The View from Rome on the Peutinger Map”
Richard Talbert, University of North Carolina

12:15–1:15 p.m.
“Iran, Rome, and Nomadic Imperialists in Late Antiquity”
Richard Payne, University of Chicago

2:15–3:15 p.m.
“Droughts, Volcanoes, Snow, and Frost: Climate Reconstruction and Steppe Nomads in Late Antique and Medieval Eurasian History”
Nicola Di Cosmo, Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton

3:30–4:30 p.m.
“Placing Attila and His Huns in Eurasian Late Antiquity”
Michael Maas, Rice University

This event is generously supported by the Gorham Fund, Department of History